Amateur theatricals, it is understood, will be on the boards before long at Trapp academy, and two fair young playwrights, it is whispered, are now laboring over a production to be presented some time next month.

The Philadelphia and Reading tug Monocacy, which came into port on Friday with the barge Macungie and two others, made the run from Philadelphia in 72 hours, usually the best time with a full tow between that port and Boston.

According to local fishermen, millions of small herring were washed ashore on the rocks in the vicinity of Braveboat Harbor on Friday. This harbor was alive with them also.

Harvey Grant is restricted to his home on Government street by illness.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society was held Friday evening at the home of the president, Alexander Dumbell on Echo street.

EVENTS OF ELIOT

A Child's Birthday Party At Kennard's Corner

A Case of Rheumatic Fever in Upper Part of Tow

Eliot, Me., Oct. 9.

Amelia Jessamine Bartlett, the daughter of Station Agent and Mrs. Cyrus Bartlett celebrated her sixth birthday with a party on Friday afternoon. There were thirty-three little folks present, the greater number of them coming from the No. 5 school, where Miss Amelia attends. Every child had a pretty paper cap and apron and they all enjoyed marching into the parlor in that novel uniform while the piano was played by Miss Althea Nason. Candy and light refreshments were served and games played for a couple of hours. Miss Amelia received some nice presents. Little Barbara Moulton Bartlett had as good a time at her bigger sister's party as she expects to have at her own when she gets older. There were a number of little folks present who are not included in the school, their names being Julia Dorothy Abbott, Ramona Marie Leadbetter, Mary Lucille Leadbetter, Nellie Grace Leadbetter, Adeline Clark, Ruth Alberta Abbott, Gertrude Elizabeth Hammond, Pauline Vivian Hobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding of Boston are spending their vacation at the home of Mr. Herbert E. Goodwin.

Mrs. Fielding is a stepdaughter of Mr. Goodwin. Mr. Fielding is spending his time gunning.

Miss Mamie Simpson, who has been visiting friends here for the past week has returned to her home in Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. Herbert Tuttle is very ill with rheumatic fever.

The name of the Boston and Maine station, for many years known as Conway Junction, which was in the early summer changed to Jewett, is now printed that way in the new railroad time table. This station is within the South Berwick limits, only a short distance from the Eliot line, and is used by a good number of Eliot people when they travel by railroad. They expect to get used to the new name without much trouble. The name is in honor of Sarah Orne Jewett, the distinguished authoress, who has died at her home in South Berwick since the change of station name was made.

Margaret J. Adlington of this town has been elected secretary and treasurer of the class of 1912 at Berwick Academy in South Berwick.

Rev. W. B. Eldridge, who went to Portland Monday, has returned home.

The lumber which Bertram Tuttle is sawing near the Cottle spring on Bald Hill is to go to the New Castle toll bridges. The sawing is for Major David Ueh, manager of the toll bridge, who bought the standing timber on several lots in the vicinity.

Nelson Barnard (not his son, John S. Barnard), is recovering from the injuries sustained by being thrown from his carriage in the runaway near Ireland's store. He was able to sit up a short time on Friday.

Fred Remick is having a vacation from his work on the navy yard.

The boys of the Eliot High school issue the following statement: "The Trapp Academy football eleven challenged the Eliot High school to a football game at the Kittery gridiron, Thursday, Oct. 7, but the challenge was not accepted, as the parents of most of the Eliot boys refuse to let their sons take part in what they call a very foolish game. But we, the Eliot boys, want the Kittery boys to understand that it is not our fault that we did not accept the challenge."

Christian Science Housecleaning in New York First Church

New York, Oct. 9.—Disclosure has been made that seven practitioners in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city have been forbidden by the board of directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, the "Mother Church," of the Christian Scientists of the world, to continue to practice.

These practitioners, whose names have been dropped from the list of practitioners because of their adherence to the teachings of Mrs. Augustus E. Stetson, who was deposed from the First Church of Christ in this city last week, are M. Augusta Alkman, Arnold Blome, Hayne Davis, Harry E. Pink, Sarah W. Hataway, L. H. Green, Stuart C. Rowbotham.

Although never before in the history of the church have so many practitioners been forbidden at one time to practice, the number dropped does not include all of those who are

Arrived At the Portsmouth Navy Yard This Forenoon

CAPT. CAMERON McRAE WINSLOW.

Captain Cameron McRae Winslow, commanding officer of the New Hampshire, is from old New Hampshire stock and when his ship poked her nose in sight of White Island he gazed at the picturesque shores of our coast and boded for the navy yard. At 10 o'clock he tied up at the sea wall alongside the coal handling plant—without even pausing; he wanted no pilot or tug—he is a spangly captain and there is no ship afloat in this country or abroad that he would not take up to the yard. He is one of the men that New Hampshire is proud of. He has a fine ship well officered and well manned and Portsmouth is right glad to see him. The New Hampshire has the distinction of being the best all around ship in the navy.

Theatrical Topics of the Day.

"Paid in Full" on Monday Night
Two millions five hundred thousand persons had seen "Paid in Full" when at the end of last season the Wagenhals & Kemper Company allowed its players a brief holiday before starting them out again this autumn in the celebrated Eugene Walter drama and five companies had appeared in it for a total of two hundred and forty-four weeks and two thousand and twelve performances.

Here is a record for exceeding any other in theatrical history the world over. Never before had a play been acted by so many companies; never had so many persons seen a play in an equal space of time; never had there been such notable runs, including two solid years in New York, six months in Chicago; never before had a play without music gone through a summer in either New York or Chicago, and never had a play made such a record for return visits. Going back five and six times to "many places" "Paid in Full" always did an increased business, invariably the audiences were bigger.

A record maker indeed is this Eugene Walter play, and a rousing welcome will be extended to it by local playgoers when it comes to the Portsmouth Music Hall on Monday night, Oct. 11.

A feature of the forthcoming engagement is the brilliant cast that will appear in "Paid in Full." It is a New York company Messrs. Wagenhals & Kemper are sending here, a cast that was in the famous play in New York, where, as everybody knows, it made the biggest hit Broadway has ever known.

So there is the doubly powerful lure of a great play and a great cast.

Seats on sale at box office.

Lancaster, Oct. 9.—The first shooting accident of the year has followed closely on the "open season." This section of the country rarely misses adding one to the death roll from accident in the course of the hunting season.

The bullet entered his head and penetrated his brain. He survived about twenty-four hours.

BERLIN POLICE CENSURED

Majority of Investigators Believe Vice is Protected

Berlin, N. H., Oct. 9.—The special committee of the city council which was appointed by Mayor Bartlett, following the request of Governor Quinn and his council for specific charges against the police commission, in answer to a resolution passed by the council asking for an investigation by the governor, have reported and the report has gone to the governor.

It has held three meetings, at two of which no person appeared, and William H. Paine, one of Berlin's lawyers. The report is signed by two of the committee, Councilmen Smith and Haggare, the third member, Councilman Cole, submitting a minority report, which stated that there was nothing to warrant any action on the part of the city council.

The report charges one of the police commissioners with protecting liquor dealers, with using their influence in politics and with allowing gambling to continue.

Academy Seniors Lose to High School

Exeter, Oct. 9.—A check has recently been received for $500 from Edward Tuck of Paris for the Exeter Cottage hospital. Of this, $500 is to be used to create an assistant for the matron, Miss Chisholm, and $300 to the emergency fund.

Virginia Gaudin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Masters, observed her ninth birthday anniversary on Friday afternoon, by a pleasant social gathering at the home. About a dozen of her playmates were present, and the afternoon spent in games and the like. Refreshments were served. She received many presents in remembrance of the day.

The Woman's Relief corps held a supper and social at Grand Army hall Friday evening. Supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock, and a social evening resulted for the one hundred or thereabouts present. Mrs. Myrtle Higgins was chairman of the committee of arrangements.

John B. Glaze, Dartmouth, '07, coach of the football eleven, will address the students at the Christian fraternity, Sunday evening.

The social meeting of the Renaissance club is to be held next Monday evening.

Highway Agent Newell S. Tilton is having a sidewalk built on Auburn street, where it turns to the approach of the Cottage hospital.

The funeral services of Mrs. Louis F. Churchill, wife of Alonzo Churchill, who died Wednesday, were held Friday afternoon at the Episcopal church, conducted by the Rev. Victor M. Houghton.

James A. Leddy, cashier of the 1909 baseball nine at the academy, and now of Epping, accompanied by his classmate, Ralph Hunt, now of Dartmouth, were visitors at the football practice on Friday.

This afternoon Exeter Academy will meet the Dartmouth machine, seven, and from indications it should be the last fight of the season. Exeter has not yet been scored upon, and every method of play will be used to keep a clean state. Last year was the first time that the freshmen from Hanover ever visited here, and thus the team today will be the second. Last year Exeter defeated the green jerseyed youngsters, and there is good reason to expect a repetition this year, as Exeter has struck a fast pace for so early in the season, and the victory over Cushing has materially boosted her chances.

There was little practice Friday afternoon, owing to the hot weather, and Coach Glaze only lined the players up for a short scrimmage against the lower middle class team, but it revealed some weak spots, which Glaze intends to remedy soon. Whiting may be replaced by Gillis, a Manchester boy, in right end, as his shoulder is troubling him, which accounts for his missing so many tackles in the game Wednesday. The team will line up against the Dartmouth boys with Whiting or Gillis, lb; Holbrook, lb; Kirkpatrick, lb; Downing, c; Haggerty, rg; Torney, rg; Paulmier or Cranall, re; O'Brien, qb; Pearson, lbh; Cornell, rlb; Upham, flb.

The high school football team won the first victory of the season on Friday afternoon by defeating the senior class of the academy. The day was too warm for football and the players suffered accordingly. The only score of the game was made after two minutes of play when one of Goettling's punts was blocked and French, picking the ball up, scored a touchdown after running forty yards. The academy boys fought hard to score in the second half, and time was called with the ball in their possession on the 15 yard line. The line up:

Mrs. Noyes, of Portsmouth, a delegate to a missionary conference at Silver Bay, recently, was present and gave a resume of her ten days' stay, selecting some of the most important features of the occasion as the theme of her informal talk. All were deeply interested in her recital, which was entertaining, instructive and inspiring. This was to have been given at the Hampton annual county meeting last Tuesday, but in consequence of a mistaken date Mrs. Noyes was absent. It is to be regretted that the fine address she would have given had to be omitted.

GOVERNMENT AIRSHIP FLIES

Wright Instructs Officers of the Signal Corps

FIVE SUCCESSFUL TRIPS

Lieutenant Lahm Accompanies Inventor to a Height of a Hundred and Fifty Feet—Lieutenant Humphreys Considers Aerial Navigation Much More Pleasant Than Automobile—First Experience With "Miss Columbia"

College Park, Md., Oct. 9.—For the first time in American history, an aeroplane owned by the United States government rose in the air here, circled over the farms that nestle in the valley and sailed back obediently to its starting point to rise again. Thus, under the guiding hand of one of its inventors, Wilbur Wright, it flew five times in the dedication of the government's tract of land to aviation.

With almost ideal conditions Wright began the flights to teach the officers of the signal corps how to handle the new machine of war he has made for them. It was the first time he had ever driven "Miss Columbia." Several times, however, he had witnessed his brother Orville send her on the way at Fort Myer before the government acceptance.

Off the starting rail at 8:35 o'clock, he circled the field for three minutes. To the spectators it appeared that he was making an ideal flight, for the machine skimmed along twenty-five feet above the ground.

Again at 4:09 o'clock Wright was off for another flight. This time he was in the air five minutes. At 4:51 o'clock he soared away to return after five minutes. Each time he had kept to the reservation grounds. Then Lieutenant Lahm took his place in the extra seat. Twice before he had ridden with Orville Wright.

At 5:15 o'clock the inventor and the soldier went flying off in the air. Up they rose to the highest altitude attained during the afternoon, probably to a height of 150 feet. Instead of limiting their course to circles over the government reservation they went a mile and a half toward Washington in hardly more than as many minutes. As they sailed over the last remaining acres owned by the Calvert family, they could have dropped a bomb in the old mansion that Lord Baltimore built more than two centuries ago. Practically under their machine's shadow the British trod nearly a hundred years ago as they marched from Washington to Baltimore during the War of 1812. In a few seconds more than five minutes after they had left the aviators landed within twenty feet of the starting rail.

All afternoon Lieutenant Humphreys had been starting the propellers. At last Wright beckoned to him to take his place for his first ride in an aeroplane. The next minute the two were off. Five more and they had finished their circles of the field and were bringing the machine to a halt alongside the starting rail.

"It's much more pleasant than automobile," remarked Humphreys. "We had a splendid view of the country."

As each flight ended the spectators who had witnessed Orville Wright use this machine commented upon the superior way in which Wilbur was gliding to a stop. When the latter was approached on the subject he said: "There never was a field in the world harder to fly on than that at Fort Myer. There you had to be turning your machine all the time you were coming down. Here you can glide in a straight line just as far as you like. When I get accustomed to the machine I may do better. It holds some with me yet."

Flights probably will be made today and on days following until the officers are familiar with the new art.

Flight Under Adverse Conditions. St. Louis, Oct. 9.—Glenn H. Curtiss, by a flight in his bi-plane in Forest park, received the applause of many thousands persons who had waited for hours for the wind to slacken. George F. Ozmont and Hugh A. Robinson attempted to make their machines fly, but failed. Curtiss, with a fifteen mile wind blowing, rose thirty feet from the ground and flew the length of the aero field. He covered a quarter of a mile and was aloft 35 seconds.

Lewis Easy For Papke. Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—Billy Papke of Illinois easily defeated Willie Lewis, the New York fighter, according to the public verdict, before the National Sporting club of Pittsburg. Both men were standing at the end of the sixth round, with Lewis all but out. Five thousand persons witnessed the fight.

Alleged Swindlers Arrested. Seattle, Oct. 9.—Jack Carroll, the wrestling promoter; Bert Warner, a middleweight wrestler, and Winn Harris were arrested at Curlew, Wash., charged with being members of the Mayberry gang of wrestling and footrace swindlers recently indicted at Omaha and Council Bluffs.

REMAINS OF IMBER

Question as to Whether Hebrew or Galicians Will Bury Them

New York, Oct. 9.—Naphthali H. Imber, a Hebrew poet and Zionist leader, who died here after a sudden attack of paralysis, will probably be buried in a grave which he bought many years ago in exchange for a fourteen line poem in classic Hebrew. "As I have neither wife nor children to bury me," says a legal document found among the poet's papers, "I have ordered into this contract whereby by my friend, Usher Marcus, in consideration of a poem written by me and herewith conveyed to him, shall take charge of my body when I die and bury me in a plot which he has furnished."

When Marcus came to fulfill his contract he found a committee of Galicians, who declared that, inasmuch as Imber was born in Galicia, theirs should be the honor of burying him and furnishing his grave. Marcus refused to relinquish his claim. A legal contest may ensue before the poet is laid to rest.

Imber was one of the best known among the Jews as the author of Hattikvah, the Zionist national hymn, which is chanted by Zionists throughout the world. He wrote many other poems well known to his people.

BIG METEOR HITS FARM

Fell With Force Enough to Plunge Eight Feet Under Ground

Walpole, Mass., Oct. 9.—A meteor weighing 200 pounds dropped on the farm of W. P. Nickerson, a former newspaper man of Boston, in Brooks street.

That the meteor struck the earth with fearful force is attested by the fact that it buried itself nearly eight feet in the soil of the field in which it fell.

Covered by eight feet of earth, it might have remained for years without being discovered if it had not in the course of its fall broken a fence which separates two fields of Nickerson's property.

AMERICAN WOMAN SINGS IN JAPANESE

Unusual Welcome to Visitors From the Orient

Ythaca, N. Y., Oct. 9.—A solo in the Japanese tongue by Mrs. B. H. Smith was a feature of the welcome which the Japanese commercial commission, now touring the United States, received at a banquet in their honor here last night. So far as is known Mrs. Smith is the first American woman to essay singing in Japanese. The words of the song were written by her husband, managing editor of the Ythaca Daily Journal; the Japanese translation was made by a son of a statesman in Japan and the music was written by Karl Schmidt of Louisville.

The song will be engrossed on vellum and forwarded to the emperor of Japan, to whom it has been dedicated.

SEVENTEEN MEN KILLED

Disregard of Orders Said to Have Been Responsible for Disaster

Topoka, Kas., Oct. 9.—Seventeen men were killed and ten severely injured in a collision between a freight and a construction train. The work train was backing into Topoka with fifty Mexicans riding on four flat cars. As the train was rounding a curve the freight crashed into it.

Engineer Ash and Fireman Corey on the freight train jumped as soon as the airbrakes could be set. The engine of the freight ran over the flat cars and almost a score of men were pinned down. It was several hours before they were extricated.

It is said the wreck was caused by the crew of the work train disregarding orders.

MANY SAILORS LEFT BEHIND

Two Hundred Missing as British Warships Sail

ACT OF GREAT COURTESY

English Cruisers Fire Salute of Twenty-One Guns Each as They Pass Out to Sea and Castle William Returns Compliment—French Vessels Depart in Silence—Admiral Seymour Has a Ride on Up-to-Date Flyer

New York, Oct. 9.—Six of the great foreign men-of-war—three British armored cruisers and three French battleships—put out to sea through the Narrows last night, leaving behind a substantial number of their men. Just how many of the blue-jackets remained in the city for one reason or another is a matter of official knowledge only, but it is reported that 200 men from the British ships failed to turn up for duty. Of the Frenchmen it is said that only three out of the 2500 sailors stayed behind. Fleet officers remained to search for the men of both squadrons.

When the British squadron visited New York several years ago it lost 300 men. English sailors have many friends here, and in addition the lure of American wages sometimes proves irresistible.

The great slate gray Indefatigable, confident of her speed, remained at her anchorage last night, giving the other three vessels of the British squadron, the Argyll, Drake and Duke of Edinburgh, nearly twenty-four hours handicap. She expects to weigh anchor this afternoon and under escort of the Connecticut, Vermont and Kansas of the Atlantic fleet, will steam out of port.

Rear Admiral Hamilton, hoisting his flag on the Drake, commanded the British squadron which left last night. Admiral of the Fleet Seymour will leave on the Indefatigable, and it is probable that his ship will try for a new trans-Atlantic record on the run to Gibraltar.

The French squadron, consisting of the battleships Justice, Verite and Liberte, in command of Admiral Le Port, got away a little earlier than the British ships. The departure of the six big foreign fighting machines leaves but few of the fifty odd vessels which made up the Hudson-Pulton celebration armada, and by next week the Hudson, which has been under the shadow of hundreds of big guns, will begin to resume its normal appearance.

In giving their farewell to the Britons amid the French in the matter of extreme courtesy. While international politeness by no means requires it, all three of the English cruisers fired a parting salute of twenty-one guns as they passed Governor's Island. Old Castle William, somewhat surprised at the extreme cordiality of the English, fired twenty-one for each vessel in return.

The French had previously passed out in silence. In view of unconfirmed reports here that certain French officers were dissatisfied over the treatment they received during the Hudson-Pulton celebration and that the failure of the French warships to salute in parting was due to pique, an officer on Governor's Island said that the salute was an extra courtesy by the British rather than any omission by the French.

Admiral Von Koester of the German navy spent the day at Niagara Falls. His white squadron here took on coal and provisions and will probably sail early next week, as will the Italian cruisers and Mexican cruiser.

The last of the festival fleet to depart will be the Dutch cruiser Utrecht, which was the first to arrive.

Admiral Seymour went sightseeing on a locomotive of the Twentieth Century limited. Seated beside the engineer, he rode forty-seven miles from New York to Ossining—the first seventeen miles in one of the New York Central's big electric engines and the remaining thirty miles in the cab of No. 3450, a 225 ton steam locomotive.

Admiral Seymour had expressed a desire to see what an American locomotive could do, and as soon as the switches and low speed signs of the city were left behind, Engineer Kiley gave No. 3450 a chance to display her prowess. On a clear stretch of track near Ossining the pointer of the speed dial mounted to eighty-four miles an hour and the heavy train whirled over a mile of rail in a fraction less than forty-three seconds.

Half a dozen members of the admiral's staff and officers of the New York Central accompanied the British officer. Seymour was very much interested in the electric locomotive, something which the English railroads have not yet adopted.

Curtailment in Cotton Mills. Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 9.—That the present disparity between the price of cotton and cotton goods precludes the possibility of the successful operation of southern mills is the unanimous opinion of the board of governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, in session here. A committee of five will formulate a curtailment agreement.

MAY WED "PAJAMA GIRL"

What Gossips Say of Author Barrie If He Secures a Divorce

London, Oct. 9.—"If James M. Barrie, the author and playwright, wins the divorce suit he has begun in the high court of justice he will marry Miss Pauline Chase, the American actress, for whom he has always shown undisguised admiration," Barrie's friends are telling each other. But even such gossip has not ventured to insinuate that Barrie instituted the suit to rid himself of his wife in order that he might take another.

While Barrie and his wife have seemed to live congenially, they differ greatly in temperament. They have no children; indeed, Miss Chase has been so close a friend of both and their guest so often that she has come to be known as their adopted daughter.

Miss Chase won much admiration here as "the girl in the pink pajamas," as a chorus girl in "The Liberty Bell."

NEW MARATHON RUNNER

Hackett Surprises Old Timers by Winning Contest at Brockton

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 9.—A Marathon race from Boston to Brockton, a firemen's muster which brought together fifty-three handbills, some closely contested harness races, and a display of high steppers, hunters and jumpers, from many of the finest stock farms of the east were features of the closing day of the Brockton fair.

The Marathon event was won by William J. Hackett of North Weymouth, a novice, whose defeat of the old timers entered in the bunch of over fifty starters was a surprise. Hackett's time was 2h. 37m. 26 1/2-5s. Hancock of Brockton carried off the honors in the handbill payout, throwing a stream 233 feet, 4 1/4 inches.

GIRL IS CHARGED WITH BURGLARIES

Said to Have Stolen About $1000 Worth of Jewelry

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 9.—Upon the young shoulders of Miss Annie M. Stone, 16 years old, the police lodge charges of a number of burglaries extending over two months, and for which she was arrested.

Specifically, three cases are cited, in which she is charged with breaking, entering and larceny, but the police also charge her with responsibility for a number of others. In round figures, the loss of $1000 worth of jewelry is laid to her unique propensities.

The police say numerous devices were used to effect the burglaries which are charged to Miss Stone. The girl comes of respectable parents and has been generally regarded as a quiet, even though very prepossessing, young woman.

MONEY FOR BIG DITCH

Over $48,000,000 Wanted to Push Work During Next Fiscal Year

Washington, Oct. 9.—The Panama canal commission has submitted to the secretary of war an estimate of appropriations aggregating $48,000,000 for work on the canal during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1910.

The total appropriations made by congress up to this time on account of the canal are $210,070,468. Chairman Goethals of the commission has declared that in his opinion the great waterway will be completed by Jan. 1, 1915, and has estimated the total cost at $375,000,000.

The unusually large amount asked for the new fiscal year probably is due to the fact that work on the waterway has entered a more advanced stage.

RACE WAR THREATENED

An Indirect Result of Drought Which Has Dried Texas Fields

Tomball, Tex., Oct. 9.—Owing to attempts by white mill operatives here to frighten away the local negro operatives, a race war is threatened. Only the lack of a leader has prevented trouble thus far.

Since the recent drought work in the fields has been lacking and the whites, turning to the mills, have sought to scare away the negro operatives by posting threatening notices.

Reserve officers are being held at Houston.

Gomez Pardons the Cortes. Havana, Oct. 9.—On the occasion of the celebration today of the anniversary of the ten years' war, President Gomez pardoned Rural Guard Sergeants Cortes, father and son, who were sentenced to be shot for participating in the uprising in Santa Clara last March and whose sentences were commuted to imprisonment for life.

HEARST WILL RUN FOR MAYOR

He Prescribes Conditions Which Were Unexpected

TERMS COMPLIED WITH

Associates Upon City and County

Tickets Substantially the Republican-Fusion Ticket Already Selected—Will Make the Race Under Auspices of "Civic Alliance," Steps to Register Which Have Been Taken

New York, Oct. 9.—After two days of silence, William R. Hearst announced to a crowd of waiting constituents early this morning that he would accept an independent nomination for mayor of New York, provided his associates upon the city and county tickets were substantially the Republican-Fusion ticket as already selected. His statement outlining the conditions upon which he will accept is in part as follows:

"Whether I am a candidate or not, I will support the rest of the fusion ticket nominated in opposition to Tammany Hall. When the Independence League committee withdrew from the fusion conference it declared that it still stood ready to support a frank and honest expression of progressive principles and candidates irrespective of party. This is your opportunity to substantiate that declaration. Nominate me if you so desire, with the greater part of that fusion ticket behind me, and I will run."

"The candidates nominated on the fusion ticket are worthy of support. The ticket is already in the field. If we nominate the fusion ticket, Tammany will be defeated. And if Tammany is defeated, the citizens will win."

Mr. Hearst goes on to say that he thinks his chances for election would be better on a straight independent ticket, but that he is not considering his personal chances alone, but rather of the city at large. In other words he wishes the endorsement of the independent to enable him to head a ticket simply by supplanting Otto T. Hannard, who has been nominated by the regular Republican party and endorsed by the so-called fusionists. In his statement Hearst repeats his endorsement of William J. Gaynor, the Democratic nominee, whom he announced several days ago he would support.

Hearst's decision to run again did not come as a surprise, but the conditions which he prescribed did. An announcement from him was expected all day yesterday and a committee appointed at the mass meeting at which he was nominated on Wednesday night was closeted with him until after midnight.

During the day, to insure a party name, legal steps were taken to register the "Civic Alliance," under which title Hearst will make the race. The choosing of this new name was made necessary in that Tammany is charged with absorbing the old Independence League machinery at the recent primaries.

Charles E. Dehring, organizer of the new Civic Alliance, and members of its executive committee voted unanimously today to accept conditions as laid down by Hearst. Dehring announced that he would begin the circulation of nominating petitions today.

MISTAKEN FOR A DEER

Hunter, While Deep in Woods, Gets Bullet Through His Body

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Henry Lewis, aged 50, proprietor of the Wayside Inn at Clear Lake Junction, was supposedly mistaken for a deer and fatally shot twelve miles from this place.

Lewis was hunting with a large party, but the name of the man who unwittingly fired the shot has not been made known. The bullet passed through Lewis' body just above the heart.

Deep in the woods and far from a settlement, the wounded man lay for six hours before a physician reached his side and when he was carried to shelter on a stretcher he was dying from loss of blood.

HIGH UP IN THE AIR

President Taft Spends Night at an Elevation of 7700 Feet

Glacier Point, Cal., Oct. 9.—President Taft arrived here last evening. The drive from Wawona, where he spent the forenoon visiting the Mariposa big tree groves, was over twenty-six miles of mountain road, and the president was ready for bed immediately after dinner.

The president was photographed at the base of the "Grizzly Giant," the biggest and oldest tree in the world; and he was photographed also in the stage as it passed through the trunk of the Wawona, one of the largest of the forest monarchs.

The stage ride from Wawona to Glacier carried the president to an elevation of 7700 feet. Last night, guarded by cavalrymen, he slept in a little hotel here.

FIRST BLOOD FOR PIRATES

Take Opening Game From Tigers in Championship Series

Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—Pittsburg, the National League champions, won the first game of the world's championship series by the score of 4 to 1. After the early innings Detroit was outclassed in every department of the game, although in the first three innings the American Leaguers outplayed their opponents.

An immense crowd—29,265 paid admissions—witnessed the exciting contest. Every available inch of seating space at the immense amphitheatre was filled.

Both Mullin and Adams pitched admirably, Mullin allowing only five hits, while the Pittsburg youngster was hit safely only six times.

RACKET TOO GREAT FOR SUFFRAGETTES

Give Up Speaking in City Which They Had Invaded

Newcastle, Eng., Oct. 9.—Last night found this city, where Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George is to deliver budget speeches today, invaded by the suffragettes. The chancellor was escorted from the station by a strong force of police.

The suffragettes attempted to hold a meeting in Drill hall, but students and the noisy element of the city, armed with bells, whistles, trumpets and other noise-making instruments, raised such a din that the speakers could not be heard and finally broke up the meeting by throwing fireworks on the stage.

The suffragettes then proceeded to the Liberal club, through the windows of which they threw stones. Four of them were arrested.

The liner did not dock and Mr. Gompers was not able to land until today.

Labor men here met him this morning and gave him a rousing welcome home. A more elaborate reception has been planned for him in Washington upon his arrival there next week.

Mr. Gompers left New York on June 9 and has since that time visited most of the more important European countries.

He says that he does not doubt one word of Dr. Cook's statement that he reached the North Pole and declares he cannot understand how anyone who knows Cook can question his story. He is absolutely confident that the American explorer with the instruments he carried would be able to determine within one-sixtieth of a degree where the Pole was located.

Captain Gerlache also is sure that Commander Peary reached the Pole.

KEEP-THIS UP

The Manchester news dispatches this morning give forth that:

"Several prominent members of the progressive element of the Republican party in the state including Col. Winston Churchill, the author who sought the gubernatorial nomination in 1906, held a conference at the New Manchester house, Friday.

"These present in addition to Colonel Churchill included Robert L. Manning of this city, Edward C. Niles of Concord and Robert P. Bass of Peterborough.

"While no information was given out at the close of the conference, it is understood that the political situation in the state was canvassed and that the question of a gubernatorial nominee in the next campaign may have been considered.

"Mr. Bass was seen at the close of the meeting, said that there was no statement to be given out in regard to the deliberations of those who attended."

Keep this sort of thing up, by all means. Let the "progressive element machine" of the Republican party have its secret meetings. Let the "old machine" of the Republican party begin to have secret meetings. Let both machines secretly and by dark lantern methods "canvass" the Republican situation. Let each pitch out for the Republican voters of the state, their candidates, and judging by the accelerated loss of votes in the past four years, the speed of the Republican party down the political toboggan will increase so in the next year, that the Democratic party will be in control in the state, and deservedly so, if present factional conditions continue to exist.

The "progressive element" seems to forget that under the primary law in this state next fall the Republican voters themselves have an opportunity to and are going to pick out their own candidates, and the sooner "progressive" and all other Republican "machines" appreciate and pay attention to this fact, the better it will be for the party and the state. In all conscience, has not the Republican party had inter-necine warfare enough for the present generation?

LOBSTER SUPPLY

The United States fish commission steamer Cannett is now said to be too small for the work.

The work of gathering and lobsters for the hatchery at Boothbay, Me., and of distributing the young lobster along the coast has grown beyond the hopes of the men who persuaded the Congress to first appropriate money for the purpose, over their seed lobsters to the commission, a thing which they were at first unwilling to do, and the commission finds that it needs a larger steamboat in order to handle the increased work.

Our lobster supply may be considered as assured for the future, and that is good news.

PORTSMOUTH 22, KITTERY 5

A football game between mixed teams of high school freshmen and parochial school boys of this city

REALTY AND DREAM

Out in the tent amid the scent of the country rich with bloom, I sat and watched the coming night, As it began to spread its bloom.

The sun drops down behind the hills, The shadows deepen on the shore, I wandered through the yesterday's, With one who knows me now no more.

And through the darkness far and near, I hear the high winds whispering low, And the hours are wandering slow.

Everything in camp is still, And the hours are wandering slow.

I hear the steady step of the sentry, The seconds I counted one by one, And then I hear the doleful cry "All's Well."

I hear the report of a distant gun.

Again everything is as solemn as death, In the gloom strange visions I could see, And while at my post on the mid-night watch, I think of her who was so dear to me.

I think I see her dear sweet face, A face divinely fair, But oh, she shrinks as I approach And leaves me broken hearted there.

I hear once more her merry voice, Upon the night it softly falls, And dreaming of the happy face I was started by hearing a call.

I turned quickly, and around me glanced, I saw a figure some distance away, "Halt!" I cried, "Who's there?" The figure answered "Officer of the day."

And the officer of the day received my report, He passed on to make his rounds, And then again I was left alone, I stand again as one spellbound.

For mother's visions I could plainly see, Which filled my heart with pain, I meet a friend who knows me not, For my uniform that is to blame.

I am sorry that the clothes I wear, Makes these friends ashamed of me, But thank God to wear the clothes, A man you have got to be.

Because I choose a life like this, All friendship breaks its band, The truth I can plainly see, I am an unfortunate enlisted man.

I am never ashamed of what I do, For my record and honor is clean, And I am proud to say that on this day,

I am one of Uncle Sam's marines.

A TIMLEY TOPIC

BY JULIA WARD HOWE The Noted Suffragist

The Advancement of Woman.

THE change that I have seen in the position of women in the 90 years of my life is something miraculous. I remember the colleges when no one would have thought of inviting us, and now how welcome women are to the women's colleges and to the co-educational institutions. The many vocations that are open to women, that never were thought of then, have increased and are increasing every year.

Men used to say, women cannot reason; women have no logic, but always when a woman amounted to something they would say that woman was an exception.

We used to believe that once, but then we could not believe it any more, because we know better. A man would say: "Madame is an exception," but I lost illusion in regard to my own superiority and realized that the majority of the women were also capable of intellectuality.

The world will be very enlarged for us when we appreciate what women really are. We are coming to find out what the capacity of the real woman really is—that she is making up for the centuries of waste behind her.

STORY OF THE PLAY.

The first act takes place in Robert Underwood's art studio in Fifth Avenue. It is evening and Underwood, a pale, nervous man of about thirty-eight is alone when Mr. Bennington is announced over the telephone. "Send him up," Underwood answers and throwing away the cigarette, he picks up a newspaper, which he carelessly scans, awaiting Bennington's arrival. "This is a surprise," Underwood exclaims, when his guest enters, but waiting formalities, the latter says his time is short and his mission delicate—he has come to warn Underwood that the firm employing him has learned that he sold many of their valuable objects for which they so far as can be accounted at the office or the store, have received nothing, and are now about to ask a return of their property.

At first Underwood tries to deny, but seeing he is trapped begs for time. "They're coming tomorrow—I promised to let you know, and I can do no more," Bennington answers. In a moment the telephone rings and Underwood goes to the receiver, "I can't see him—tell him I'm in." But he leaves the sentence unfinished to detain Bennington, is about to leave. It's only that infernal nuisance, "Howard Jeffries," Underwood announces, and in another moment the nuisance, a young fellow of about twenty-five, evidently slightly under the influence, makes his appearance and Bennington soon takes his leave.

Young Jeffries is profuse with apologies "for butting in," and wants to know of Underwood why he is so dejected. "Wait till you hear my hard luck story; that'll cheer you up," he says. It quickly develops that the boy is out of money and has come to borrow, and reminds Underwood of the 250 bucks he loaned him. "When my family kicked me out for marrying the guest girl that ever lived, my father cut me off with a piking allowance which I told him to put in the church plate," Howard rambles on, as he helps himself to the decanter. He admits that he has the independence he sought, but is broke and wants to borrow a couple of thousand. Underwood advises his friend to go home and see his father.

Howard—After being turned out like a dog, with a young wife on my hands, not much, no, I've enjoyed their pride. You know, father married a second time—loaded me down with a young stepmother, and I followed suit.

Underwood—Yes, I know. Howard—She's all right, but she's so confoundedly—you know her. Say, didn't you and she—wasn't there some sort of an engagement once? Seems to me—

Underwood didn't care to talk about the matter and asks Howard if he cannot postpone his visit, but

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all Knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these troubles. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiff joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and life to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address, Mrs. M. Summers, Box R, Notre Dame the boy simply takes another drink and continues talking. He declares he has married the finest little woman in the world; she is a little brute, but the only thing he objects to is that she insists on going back to work, and he won't allow that, lie, by the way, has attempted several things himself unsuccessfully.

Underwood tries to tell Howard that he is broke, and again advises him to go to his father who will relent. Jeffries, Sr., has too much brains and too little heart, his son thinks, for any chance of relenting. "My God, how obstinate that man is," he draws growls, as he throws one foot over the arm of the couch on which he is sitting. "Gee but, I've made a mess of things, haven't I?" he muses.

Underwood—You've made a mess of your life, but you've had some measure of happiness, at least, you married the woman you love. The woman I wanted married someone else—damn him!

Howard—Say, old man, I didn't come here to hear a hard luck story. I came to tell you if you can't be cheerful—don't say anything—shut up.

And with this Jeffries falls over on the couch asleep. Again the telephone rings, and Underwood answering it learns that a lady is calling and leaving word for her to come up as returns to Howard, whom he tries to arouse, but finding the boy dead to the world he draws screen about the couch just as Mr. Jeffries, Sr. enters. It seems that she has called in answer to a note from him, in which he threatens to kill himself unless she continues to love him. She upbraids him for writing to her, and he remains her, that when she broke her engagement with him she did not destroy his love for her. She broke the engagement, she tells him, because she found he was deceiving her as he deceives others, and adds that he is incapable of disinterested friendship as he is of common honesty. Then she asks him if he means to carry out his threat.

Underwood—If my life has no interest for you, why should I care?

Mrs. Jeffries, But you accuse me of being the cause of driving you to death. I, who have been your friend in spite of your dishonesty. O, it's deplorable ungrateful and above all, it's untrue.

He asks her why she came to see him. She dreads the shame of having her name connected with that of a man who takes his own life. She tells him, and he taunts her with her pride. She reminds him of what her husband has suffered through his son's marriage. With a salmon-keeper's daughter, and asks if he would add to their disgrace. But why should he consider her husband's feelings—who did not consider him when he married her? They argue further, but reach no satisfactory conclusion; she declares she will not recognize him longer among her friends that he may cheat and rob them. "If you desert me now," he threatens, "you'll be sorry till the day of your death."

Telling him that she does not believe a man who is coward enough to write the letter he did has courage to carry out his threat, Mrs. Jeffries says good-night and leaves the studio. When she is gone Underwood pauses for a moment, then goes to the door, and looking if puts the key in his pocket, draws the curtain across the window turns on the lights as he disappears through the door leading into the adjoining room, in another moment a shot is heard—then silence.

Ten hours later in the same studio Captain Clinton, assisted by Sergeant Maloney and another officer, are giving young Jeffries the "third degree" test. Haggard and worn, the boy stands under a brightly lighted chandelier, his hands resting on the table, and answers over and over the questions. Captain Clinton keeps repeating, "I've told you so many times," he pleads, "my breath comes heavily, and you don't believe me—how can I believe the fellow who questions me?" "You please," he says, "I will be waiting for you."

the captain only goes over the ground again, insisting that Jeffries quarreled with Underwood, from he wished to borrow money, and then shot him. Of course the boy denies this and keeps denying it until he is utterly worn out and sinks into a chair from which Captain Clinton orders him to get up, and then he begins again. This time he takes out the revolver and seems to become fascinated with its glint, while the captain says: "You did it Jeffries—you know you did. Come out with it; let's have the truth. You shot Robert Underwood, with this revolver."

And so he keeps on until at last Howard begins slowly to repeat the words after Clinton.

Clinton: You quarreled.

Howard: We quarreled.

Clinton: You came here for money.

Howard: I came here for money.

This continues until Jeffries says: "I shot him!" "Where?" exclaims Clinton. That's all, Gee, he was a tough man." Then turning to his assistants he asks if they got it all down. At this point Dr. Bernstein enters the room, and hearing that Howard has confessed asks the captain if he feels sure Underwood might not have killed himself. He looks the boy over, feels his pulse and remarks that he doesn't like these all-night examinations and third degree processes; at which the captain sneers.

It seems that Howard's wife—Annie—is below stairs waiting, having heard of the trouble, and Jeffries, Sr., has been sent for and is on his way down. Annie is brought into the room as Howard is leaving, and as she starts toward him Clinton stops her and questions her as to her knowledge of the affair and acquaintance with Underwood. He reminds her that her father's record was not any too clean, and asks if her husband was jealous of Underwood.

Annie—Jealous? What right have you to ask that? I refuse to answer any more questions.

Clinton—Now you can help him.

Mrs. Jeffries, by helping us. Did you call here last night to see Mr. Underwood?

Annie—No.

Clinton—Sure?

Not satisfied with this Clinton has a bell-boy produced, who fails to identify Annie as the woman who called the night before. Much to Captain Clinton's disgust. The boy is dismissed, and in a few moments Howard Jeffries, Sr., enters. He seems somewhat perturbed, just the newspaper men below may think he is condoning his son's offense. Clinton is about to introduce him—

DARTMOUTH'S PRESIDENT TO BE INAUGURATED

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 8.—Characteristic Dartmouth simplicity will mark the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of Ernest Fox Nichols as tenth president of Dartmouth college on Thursday next, Oct. 14, but this little town will be crowded as never before with alumni and friends of the college.

Particularly notable will be the gathering of distinguished educators and scientists. Nearly 100 college presidents have accepted invitations to be present. The details for the programme for the induction into office of a successor to Pres. William Jewett Tucker, announced today, provide for the opening of the day with a service in the college chapel. The faculty, trustees and guests then will march to Webster hall, where the formal inaugural exercises will be held. A luncheon in College hall will be followed by an inspection of the college buildings, and at 4 p. m. Pres. Nichols will lay the corner stone of the new gymnasium. In the evening the trustees will tender a dinner to the invited guests in College hall.

An anthem sung by the college choir will open the proceedings in Webster hall, after which the invocation will be offered by Rev. Francis Brown, president of Union Theological seminary. Gen. Frank S. Streeter of Concord, president of the board of trustees, will then formally induct Dr. Nichols into the office of president, and the new executive will make a brief speech of acceptance.

A welcome to "Wheelock Succession," a symbolic title coming from Eleazer Wheelock, the first president of Dartmouth college, will be extended to Pres. Tucker, and Pres. Nichols will respond briefly.

Then will follow short addresses of congratulation headed by that from the British founders and benefactors of the college, to be extended by British Ambassador James Bryce. Gov. Henry B. Quincy will extend the congratulations of the state of New Hampshire, while Pres. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university will speak for the invited delegates.

Prof. Charles D. Adams of the Greek department of the college will voice of welcome of the faculty, and Horace Russell of New York, president of the Dartmouth alumni association, will congratulate the new president on behalf of the alumni.

The last of these speeches will be made for the undergraduates by Charles W. Tobin of Boston, president of the senior class. Pres. Nichols then will deliver his inaugural address, which will be followed by the conferring of honorary degrees upon a number of the delegates.

Rt. Rev. Hildebert Talbot, Episcopal bishop of Bethlehem, Penn., will pronounce the benediction.

The last of these speeches will be made for the undergraduates by Charles W. Tobin of Boston, president of the senior class. Pres. Nichols then will deliver his inaugural address, which will be followed by the conferring of honorary degrees upon a number of the delegates.

DESTROYER REID TESTED AGAIN

Bath, Oct. 9.—Another test of water and coal consumption by the new torpedo boat destroyer, Reid, built at the Bath Iron Works was made Friday. She steamed out of the Kennebec river shortly after 7 a. m. and began a 12-hour run at 24-knot speed.

The Reid occupied 12 hours in making two round trips between Seguin Island, a here, and Thatcher's Island, off Cape Ann, Mass., returning to Bath at night. Officers of the naval board stated that the Reid averaged about 24 7-10 knots an hour. Her water consumption was a trifle below the guarantee and the coal consumption was regarded by both members of the naval board and builders as satisfactory.

Today the Reid starts on the last of the tests, a four hours' run at 28 knots speed.

NEWFIELDS

George S. Littlefield was drawn to serve as grand juror at the superior court in Portsmouth, and Christopher Pollard as petit.

The Misses Isabel and Harriett Paul left yesterday for a two weeks' automobile trip through Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Robinson were called to Boston on Tuesday by the death of Mr. Robinson's father. Their many friends sympathize with them in this affliction.

The second and third quarterly conference of the official members of the Methodist church was held on Monday evening, Rev. Dr. Sanderson, district superintendent, presiding.

The aged mother of Rev. L. D. Bragg has so far recovered from the serious illness of the early summer that she contemplates a trip in the near future from her home in Groton, Mass., to Vermont and later hopes to make a somewhat extended visit in the Methodist parsonage at Newfields.

Miss Laura M. Bragg fills the duties of her new position, librarian of the Charleston Museum, "Charleston, S. C., most congenial and interesting."

Miss Barbara K. Bragg is happily convalescent at the New England Omeceon hospital, Boston.

John E. Guard, of Plaistow, went to Boston Wednesday to confer with the Boston and Maine officials regarding his transfer to Newfields, where he has accepted a position as station agent.

PITTSBURG WON FIRST GAME IN WORLD'S SERIES

The Pittsburgh Nationals won the first game of the world's championship series from Detroit on Friday afternoon, by a score of 4 to 1. The game was played in the wonderful new ball park of the Pittsburgh team and it was estimated at 50,000 people saw the game and thousands were unable to get admission to the grounds. Adams was in the box for the Pirates, and Mullen for the Tigers. Mullen pitched the better game, only allowing five hits against six off Adams, but he did not get the support, the Tigers making three costly errors while Pittsburgh played an errorless game.

The New York Nationals won from Boston Americans in New York in intercity matches by a score of 4 to 2. There was a large attendance.

In Chicago the Nationals again won, from the Americans, winning by a score of 4 to 0.

MORE MEN CALLED

Fifty-two more workmen were called at the navy yard this morning.

The regular trains on the Eastern division are taxed beyond their capacity.

Some Famous Doctors.

Morgan, the founder of modern pathology, was an Italian. Avenbrugger, inventor of physical diagnosis, was an Austrian. Jenner, the discoverer of vaccination, and Lister, father of modern surgery, were Englishmen. Schwann, originator of the cell doctrine, and Koch, who isolated the bacillus of tuberculosis, are credited to Germany; O'Dwyer, inventor of intubation, and Wright, who worked out the theory of opsonins, which teaches how the blood fights disease, to Ireland. Pasteur, father of preventive medicine, who taught the world the causes of sickness and demonstrated that no one need die of parasitic diseases, was born in France.

Out of the Question.

"Here is something very elegant," says the salesman, piloting the lady through the display of beds. "This is our latest design in twin beds and is one of the most popular things we sell. I would suggest that you cannot do better than to buy them."

"Twin beds?" replied the lady. "They are pretty, but—but we haven't twins!"—Chicago Post.

FRAUDULENT HAIR REMEDIES

In the Cosmopolitan Magazine for February, 1909, there is a long article on the Hair and Scalp by W. C. Hutchinson, M. D., a writer of wide renown, and in it he says: "The strongest and most powerful curative element of scalp tonics, and hair restorers is their smell, and the next powerful is their color. Most of them are franks, pure and simple, and produce no effect whatever except upon the imagination and the nostrils of the users. The most common constituent of them all is alcohol, and the next common probably ammonia or some aromatic oil or extract which has the double advantage of a powerful odor and of producing a mild sense of warmth and local irritation. All of this class are mild irritants to the skin and produce a light temporary reddening by an increase in the amount of blood circulating through the scalp; but this has about as much effect on the hair bulbs as the beams of the harvest moon have upon growing earbuds."

The public is learning that falling hair, itching scalp and dandruff cannot be cured by "free, flakes, and frauds; but that the only sure way to benefit the hair and scalp is to keep them clean and free from dust and alkaline salts. For this purpose, Dr. H. H. Wash, the new scientific preparation, is most highly recommended because it is made of refined soap, glycerine, Cohn's Coconut Oil, Glycerol and Salicylic Acid. Any doctor will tell you there are no better things known than these for cleaning the hair and scalp.

It is estimated that since 1900, President Taft has traveled a distance greater than that to the moon. If this becomes a precedent it will benefit the necessary for prospective presidential candidates to circle the globe swiftly seven or eight times.

Possibly Walter Wellman's balloon shed is rushing toward completion and the Spitzbergen dispatch man merely fails to announce the important fact.

Baseball men shouldn't take it to heart. Discovery of the north pole will never again dim the luster of the game in the newspapers.

The motto "Let bygones be bygones" gets many a knock when Greater New York is choosing a mayor.

Spain has discovered that the only good Moors are dead Moors and that the just loves good Moors.

When the south pole is discovered we can send the man who does things to interview the comet.

Lady Antenna certainly came well introduced.

THE FINAL SETTLEMENT

The Final Settlement played to a small sized audience at Music Hall on Friday evening, and the show gave satisfaction. The leading man, H. Blosser Jennings, as John Stone, was good in the difficult role he had to portray.

There has been delightful weather the past week.

BITS OF SPORT

The Marathon race at Brockton, which terminated at the fair, was won by William J. Hackett of North Weymouth, in 2 hours, 37 minutes and 26 seconds. There were sixty-one starters, and the prizes were big enough to draw some of the best runners in the country.

It was rather a strange coincidence that in the three baseball games on Friday, between teams of the National and American leagues, that the National team won and all had the same number of scores to their credit. Pittsburgh defeated Detroit 4 to 1, New York defeated Boston 4 to 2 and Chicago Nationals defeated Chicago Americans 4 to 0.

The latest is that Galveston will offer $70,000 for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and hold it out on the stone jetty, which will be outside of the three mile limit. There is a grave question whether the fight is worth that amount of money. It would mean an outlay of at least $30,000, and it would require big prices for the promoters to get their money back.

The high school team will have a practice game this afternoon and will play their next game with Rochester. There seems to be some feeling in the team over the game at Saturday. This is wrong for Manchester has a better team, and should, for that matter have a better team than Portsmouth; they have more men to pick from, some real coaches, a good field to play on and what is lacking here—or at least on the outsider seems to be lacking—school spirit. A little of the latter is all that is needed at the high school. They have the material for a football team and can hold their own with any high school of the size of this city, and the boys should get at least twenty or thirty of them every afternoon for practice, and his is the only way they can get a winning team.

The baseball fans are now having a very uneasy period, for the world's championship series are on and the delay in the settlement of the question is wearing on some of the fans' nerves. Pittsburgh at least took first blood in the series, having won the opening game on Friday afternoon.

From the brief account of the game I have seen, it would appear as though it was the old story of Detroit falling down. They had me more hit off Adams than Mullen allowed the Pirates, but they also had three large errors and these were much to be considered. Detroit may brace up and forget their yellow streak and win the series, but I doubt it, and look for Pittsburgh, even handicapped as they are by the loss of one of their best pitchers, to make a runaway match of it.

The batting average of Ty Cobb this year of .376, which is the record for the two leagues, has brought up some discussion as to the records or batting averages. In the American league N. Lajoie holds the record made in 1901, when he batted on an average of .422, and again in 1904 he made for .381. Others who have equalled or exceeded Cobb's record were F. B. Seymour of Cincinnati in 1905, .377; and Ed. Delehanty in 1902, .376. The best average ever made by a big leaguer was made in 1884 by Hugh Duffy, who batted that year for .438. This was the best record ever made, although that same year Turner with 77 games to his credit batted for .423. The following year Jesse Barlett batted for .422. Of late years in the National league, Wagner of Pittsburgh, who led the league this year, holds the record for a general average, from 1900 to this year, with the exception of 1901 and 1902, when he fell below the .360 mark. Wagner has batted for a general average of .352, a record never held by any other baseball player. His highest average was .380 in 1901.

A SCREAMING SUCCESS

"Slide Bill Slide," now being sung at Music Hall, is proving to be a big feature in the bill this week.

This afternoon and tonight the pictures are all new and interesting, making an exceptionally pleasing programme.

Those who have not yet seen Mr. Dunbar, the wonderful European gymnast, should do so now, for this is the last chance.

For this afternoon we have arranged a programme which we think will be particularly pleasing to the children.

STUNTED OAKS.

Millions of Trees That Are Grown in China Stunted.

In the window of a plant nursery I noticed some stunted oaks, in each of which grew a tree—not a shrub, but a full sized tree, dating back many years. "Yes," replied the florist to the writer's inquiry, "they are real trees—oaks, maples and beech trees. We get them from Japan, where the secret of how to rear them is known only to a few. They are raised from seeds or specially selected cuttings, which are watched and tended with that marvelous patience inherent in the eastern races. Fifty years may pass before the tree is considered suitable. During this period the plant is trained and its natural tendencies subjugated to the will of the rearer. The painstaking process and trials and errors and distress with which Carlyle called genius—an infinite capacity for taking pains! A wayward twig may be bound up for two or three years to insure its correct growth. Periodically the tree is re-potted. Each time this happens the roots are carefully examined and useless fibers cut away. Everything is done to concentrate the life of the tree in the smallest possible space. And in time, after years of labor, the plant loses its ability to send out long, lanky shoots and becomes a delightful miniature of its larger brethren."—Montreal Standard.

THE NIGERIAN BABY.

Water Soaked Inside and Outside at the Morning Toilet.

Matrons of the west may be interested to hear the details of the Nigerian native baby's morning toilet. Anything over three months old is no longer a "baby" to the native mother, and is bathed with the other children, generally a numerous brood, in the chilly morning air before sunrise. The little mite yells lustily when the cold water is splashed over its brown body and generally continues the chorus when put aside to dry. Towels do not form part of the household equipment. The bathing process finished, the infants are subjected to a sort of water cure treatment. The mother seizes a child, scoops up a handful of water and, using her thumb as a kind of spout, squirts it with extraordinary dexterity into the youngster's mouth and down its throat. Protests in the shape of loud gurgles, horrible chokings and desperate struggling are quite unheeded. The steady stream of water continues to pour down the child's throat until the mother's practiced touch on the patient's distended stomach tells her that the limit of capacity has been reached. All babies are submitted to this treatment, which is believed to have a most strengthening effect.—London Standard.

Advice to Smokers.

Here are a number of don'ts for smokers, some of which no doubt will surprise a good many men: Don't smoke directly after a meal. There is the most irresistible craving to smoke, but it is wiser to wait a half hour or an hour. Don't smoke out of doors in a high wind or in cold, frosty weather. In the former case it is dangerous, and in the latter it cracks the lips and prevents proper breathing. Don't smoke with the cigar or pipe held at the corner of the mouth. This excites the secretion of more saliva than when the cigar or pipe is held straight in front. And, above all, don't get in the bad habit of expectorating frequently when smoking. It is quite unnecessary and merely a habit and harmful.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Ignorant, but Careful.

"Ignorance nearly always makes fools of us," said a lecturer. "I remember a man, ignorant of etiquette, who once sat beside me at a public dinner. I noticed that this man, as soon as he was seated, took up one by one the knives at the right of his plate and began to try their edges on his thumb. A waiter behind him leaned forward and said in a hurt tone:

"The knives are all sharp, sir."

"The point is," said my neighbor. "I'm looking for a blunt one. Last time I attended a banquet here I cut my mouth."

An Obedient Tiger.

"How entire," remarks the London Globe, "is the confidence of the native East Indian in the government may be gathered from the following anecdote, which comes from Lahore: A tiger had escaped from the zoological gardens, and his keeper, hoping to lure it back, followed it. When all other inducements had failed, he lifted up his voice and solemnly adjured it in the name of the British government, to which it belonged, to come back to its cage. The tiger, it is needless to add, obeyed at once."

Foul or Fair Weather.

Small Wallace accepted an invitation to a party, as follows:

"Dear Louis—I will come to your party if it don't rain," (then, thinking that he might have to stay at home in that case), "and if it does."—Dunbar.

A Real Tumbler.

"I saw a goblet today, made of bone."

"Tahw! I saw a tumbler made of flesh and blood last night."

"Where?"

"At the circus."

Of noise alone is born the inward sense of silence, and from action springs alone the inward knowledge of true love and faith.—MacDonald.

A MATTER OF FIGURES

Natalie's Mistake and the Explanation That Came Later.

By MATHILDA HENDERSON WHELOCK.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

"Natalie?"

"Yes, auntie." Natalie stood in the doorway.

"That letter to Anne Whitmore in regard to those purchases for Coralie's trousseau with which she is to be commissioned—can't you attend to it for me, please? Coralie ought to be here to attend to her shopping in person. You'll find the list with her letter there on your desk. Write in your own person so as not to disturb me for the signature. You know what I wish you to say. I went over it with you this morning. Don't forget the outside limit—$1,200. George would utterly spoil Coralie if I permitted it, and Anne Whitmore would abet him."

Natalie turned at once to her task. Coralie's letter with its dazzling list lay at hand. Such beautiful things! But Natalie felt no envy of this favored cousin, whose rich bachelor uncle made it his chief pleasure to indulge her own life as housekeeper for dear of thanks for the roses. "You will send him that, of course."

"He doesn't expect me to write him again. He—doesn't want me to."

Mrs. Eldred reread the letter. It did seem as if the young man were slowing down the correspondence and, with a sigh, she laid the missive down at Natalie's elbow and softly withdrew.

The matter troubled her for days, however. Meanwhile she did some thinking, the final result of which was that on the very day but one before his vacation ended Ted Markham was handed the following letter, forwarded from his bank to the late postoffice, seven miles from the city, where he had spent a restless and thoroughly unquiet twelve days:

My Dear Mr. Markham—I have reason to believe my niece, Natalie Dare, sent you, instead of the enclosed note, a list of materials my friend, Mrs. Whitmore, was to select for the occasion of my daughter's marriage. I am sorry to hear, however, that the First National bank of our town, my brother, with whom Coralie and I live and who is very wealthy, sells my daughter dreadfully, at the last of the show. Will you kindly mail the letter to me at your earliest convenience? Yours very truly,

ESTHER FLORED.

Mr. Markham had just time for the train for New York. It would have been in New York in time to catch a train for Forestville, which would give him just four hours of his precious vacation with Natalie.

Once settled on the train, he took a vacant envelope from his pocket, extracted a letter—more properly speaking, part of a letter—and read:

Aunt Esther insists that the enclosed list must come within an expenditure of $1,200. She considers this quite sufficient for a girl who is to marry a bank clerk, even though a fond uncle is willing to indulge her extravagantly. Very sincerely yours,

NATALIE DARE.

It was Natalie herself who the next evening answered Ted's ring at the door and who listened to the explanation he had lost no time in making.

"I've been a fool, Natalie," he wound up. "But those figures! Twelve hundred dollars—why, they simply floored me! That was almost the extent of my salary for a year, and if that was what you were accustomed to and what you considered a reasonable and even an economical outlay for clothes at one thing—well, girls, there seemed to me nothing for me to do, and that was to forget what I had hoped for."

"But the things were for a trousseau," began Natalie.

"There wasn't a word about a trousseau in my part of the letter! I'm glad here wasn't. That would have put a pin in my hopes with a vengeance," Natalie said.

"But I said the girl was to marry a bank clerk," Natalie hurried on indignantly. "How, then, could you suppose—"

Ted's arms shot out and took her into a swift embrace.

"How could I suppose anything else? To me there was only one girl in the world—and one bank clerk who loved her. It was unvarnished truth, wasn't it? And wouldn't you forgive me?"

And Natalie both saw and forgave.

Fussy on the Ocean.

The great stage scene of the piece was a shipwreck, and after the vessel had gone down with the comic man and the heroine, the scene opened on a frail raft on the boundless ocean.

The comedy men had expected that his wobbling appearance would make a laugh, but even he was astonished at the roar which went up when they saw him.

At last he was able to get a hearing. "I wish," he said to the heroine, "that we could get out and walk home, but it's so jolly well."

The audience was too exhausted to laugh any more, and the voice of the man in the gallery sounded painfully clear:

Ten Selected to Go on the Hist

Patapsco to Sail for This Yard on Sunday

Delaware to Relieve the Wisconsin About January 1

Fire on the Bridge
When the yard fire alarm sounded at 12:38 today, there was rejoicing, for it was learned that the blaze was on the yard bridge. Hopes for a new bridge to replace the old and generally thought to be unsafe structure ran high for a few minutes and then the all-out signal was sounded and the hopes were dashed. This was the second fire within a short time at the bridge. The plan is to repair it, but the comfort of the yard residents and the safety of the public call for a new one.

Ten Going to Cuba
Boatswain James U. S. N., of the Hist, has selected ten Portsmouth and Kittery boys to go to Cuba on assist him in survey.

Surveying About the Yard
A party of officers from the Hist are making a number of surveys about the navy yard.

Delaware to Relieve Wisconsin
About Dec. 1 the Michigan will relieve the Ohio in the Atlantic fleet; about Jan. 1, the South Carolina will relieve the Missouri; and about Feb. 1 the Delaware will relieve the Wisconsin and the North Dakota the New Jersey. No changes have taken place in the assignment of the officers of the Michigan. It has been expected that Capt. Richard T. Mulligan, now on duty in the Bureau of Navigation, will command the South Carolina, but the matter has not been fully decided. It is also understood that Comdr. Augustus F. Fechter, on duty with the Board of Inspection and Survey will be given command of the Delaware. Lieut. Comdr. H. B. Price of the Bureau of Ordnance, is likely to be made chief engineer of the Delaware. Comdr. John G. Quinby, now stationed at the Norfolk navy yard as equipment officer and in charge of the wireless stations in the Norfolk district, is under consideration for detail to the North Dakota.

INSPECTING NAVY YARDS

Col. Denny of Marine Corps Has Been At Boston

Washington, Oct. 7.—Col. Frank L. Denny, quartermaster of the marines who has just returned from Boston after inspecting a building being constructed in the navy yard, says that the facilities of the yard will be increased considerably when the structure is completed. The building contains a prison in the basement, offices upstairs and storerooms on the third floor. Col. Denny says the work is progressing satisfactorily.

Marine officers say the government made a mistake a number of years ago when it sold part of the land embraced in the Boston navy yard to the Boston and Maine railroad. The yard is crowded at present and additional land could only be purchased at a heavy cost.

Col. Denny is going to the navy yard at Bremerton, Washington, to arrange for the construction of a number of buildings at the marine barracks. They will not be finished for a year or more and until then it is said that Maj. M. J. Shaw, now second in command of marines at that station, will be retained.

It is said that this will remove the necessity of assigning Col. Thomas Wood, commandant of the marines at Boston, or any other colonel to Bremerton. There are only 160 men at the Washington station, which is hardly considered a colonel's command. It is proposed to increase the force to 400. Even then prominent marine officers say Col. Wood will hardly be sent to Bremerton. He has a good record at Boston, and although he has served three years there, the usual period at one station, in the opinion of Col. Denny and other officers here, Col. Wood will not be transferred.

Gen. Elliott, commandant of the corps, saw Col. Wood recently at Boston and learned that the colonel does not want to go west. While it is said that the question has not been decided, it is believed that Col. Wood may be allowed to retain his present station.

Permit me to express my endorsement of the wonderful Autopiano purchased from you some time ago. The tone and durability are most commendable. ## CONGREGATIONAL HOME MISSIONS

Big Convention to be Held This Month at Burlington

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 9.—Congregationalists of all New England and indeed of many parts of the whole country are interested in the approaching meeting of the American Missionary Association, to be held in their first church here, Oct. 19 to 21. The notable feature of the meeting will be, it is said, the larger participation in it of the lay element of the denomination. Ministers are expected as heretofore, but in larger numbers than usual business and professional men will attend.
Lieut. Governor Mend will extend a word of welcome, and the speakers will include the Rev. Dr. Frank J. Goodwin of Rhode Island, the Rev. Dr. Newton R. Jones of Porto Rico, the Rev. Dr. George W. Moore of Tennessee, the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Patton of the American Board, General Secretary Dyer of the Congregational Brotherhood, and the Rev. Dr. Philip S. Moxom of Springfield. Especially interesting will be Prof. Keiley Miller, who is one of the few colored men who hold the doctor of philosophy degree from Johns' Hopkins. He is among the foremost men of his race in America, an author of note, and professor of mathematics in Howard University at Washington.
The Association is one of three Congregational benevolences which find their debts paid through the efforts of a forward movement inaugurated last spring. In that all of these benevolences worked together, and no less than $310,000 was raised. It was one of the most remarkable exhibitions of missionary zeal ever shown in any religious body. Not only so, but all of the benevolences, including the Association, to meet here, closed their fiscal year without falling into debt again.

The American Missionary Association came into being in 1846 when there were storms and stress. The negroes were slaves in hopeless bondage, Indians were robbed right and left by greed and lust of selfish officials and contractors, American mountaineers, decending slavery, were locked away in the fastness of the South, neglected and growing more brutal and heightened every year, and Alaska was a foreign country, with no one helping its scattered peoples. The Association was the response of New England Congregationalists to all of these appeals of alien races.

The extent of its work, after more than sixty years, is one among many evidences that Christianity is not falling, but is more virile than ever before. Fifteen thousand pupils in its southern schools, and members of Christian churches among Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Esquimaux, Hawaiians, Porto Ricans, Negroes, mountaineers—here is where its $250,000 a year from living givers goes. The Burlington meeting will consider all of this work, and much more.
